THE LIBRARIES WE OCCUPY
THE LIBRARIES WE WANT
THE LIBRARIES WE NEED

Great library space is not an accident.

You may be blessed with a modern, well-designed library with plenty of space, great lighting, and comfortable furniture. However, if your library is more than ten years old, user and staff dissatisfactions with your facility may be taking up more of your time than you wish to spend.

- Do you have enough seating for users?
- Are you able to store and make your growing collections accessible?
- Are you able to install the computer terminals and network connectivity that your users expect?
- Is your building too hot in the summer or too cold in the winter?
- Do you have to upgrade access to your library to accommodate people in wheelchairs or with other special needs?
- Are you trying to create an awareness among administrators, managers, or trustees that it is time for a renovation or a new building?
- Are you expecting a visit from newly appointed architects and designers but have never been involved in a building or construction project?

Our professional educations may have taught us about cataloging and providing quality reference service, but the design, construction, management, and upgrading of the space our libraries occupy wasn't part of the Library School curriculum.

The Libraries We Occupy
The Libraries We Want
The Libraries We Need

is an intensive one day workshop designed to put you in control of your space and provide you with the knowledge you need to change problem space into great library space.
