Invigorating your space: Rethinking the library at De Smet Jesuit High School By Lynn Grimshaw Maitz, Librarian

As I enter my third year at De Smet Jesuit High School I cannot believe how far we have come! The needs of our students have changed and the library is keeping pace with those demands. Our library has been primarily used to study and provide refuge for those students looking for a silent study space. With the addition of a new Principal two years ago and a new President this year; we were ready to utilize the space a bit differently.

I decided in order to continue to increase our visibility and become a more welcoming space, a dramatic reconfiguration needed to take place. This summer with the assistance of a crew of six young men, we began a massive weeding project and removal of nine shelving units.

I have been doing regular weeding, but had such a large number of items that needed to be removed that the pace needed to increase in order to complete this project quickly. We removed 6,495 items from the collection in about ten days.

The boys were busy breaking down shelving while I deleted items as fast as the keyboard would allow! They assisted in removing items and did most of the heavy lifting. We cleared the floor and installed shelving along the back wall. The wall shelving has seven rows and plenty of room for expansion with the addition of new materials.

The goal for our new space was to create more light, an airy feeling, and additional space for meetings, classes and presentations. The library is now continuously booked for presentations, speaker series, meetings and faculty meetings. We are in constant use during the day and tend to be even busier at night. The kids love the new space and it gets so crowded during our "free period" that it becomes difficult to find a space to sit.

We plan to begin some additional remodeling in the near future. De Smet Jesuit High School is a one-to-one school so every student has a laptop. In keeping up with technology, we will be renovating our space to create a media center that focuses on technology, collaboration and student-centric learning. I welcome your questions, visits and feedback! Please feel free to contact me by email <a href="mailto:lmailt
